

Letter From The North Pole

Christmas is here and so I must go, back to the North Pole, as you probably know.

I've had so much fun here and wish I could stay.
I will miss you bunches while I am away!

I really loved surprising you every morning,
by showing up in new places without any warning.

The good news is that I will be back next year,
with all new adventures and holiday cheer!

So now I must leave, but it won't be too long,
before I'm back with your family where I belong!
